

THOUSANDS GET BID TO STUDIO

Lobbyists undoubtedly exert great pressure upon legislators. They specialize in making minorities mountainous and in scaring susceptible friends of the "people."

The power of these pressure groups lies in the fact that so many citizens are not informed as to what goes on. Any seasoned politician can tell you that so apathetic are citizens generally that a concerted attack upon an office holder by a small group means his defeat.

The remedy for lobbying, and other forms of pressure upon legislators, is in greater popular attention to what these groups are attempting to secure for themselves.

American transition has brought many kinds of relief. Why not tax relief? So a few interested Texans have organized a Committee for tax relief. It is not expected that even tax payers who bear the burden will pay much attention to existing conditions. The lobbyists are making a mountainous minority work again.

Farms and ranches in these days of broad expenditure are now known as vanishing sources of public revenue. There was a thirty million dollar shrinkage in 1933 in the impounding of money from these sources. Still, home owners, farms, ranches and other real estate in Texas paid $120,000,000 in taxes to state, county, city and district. This is an open levy. The circuitous gathering by excise, sales tax and other methods swelled this total to a staggering amount.

Texas people owe three-quarters of a billion in bonded debt. Last year only $20,000,000 was paid on it. Now comes the Tax Relief Committee with the neat, incisive statement: "Go buy $750 worth of furniture on credit and pay only $20 on it in a year and watch the moving van back up to the door."

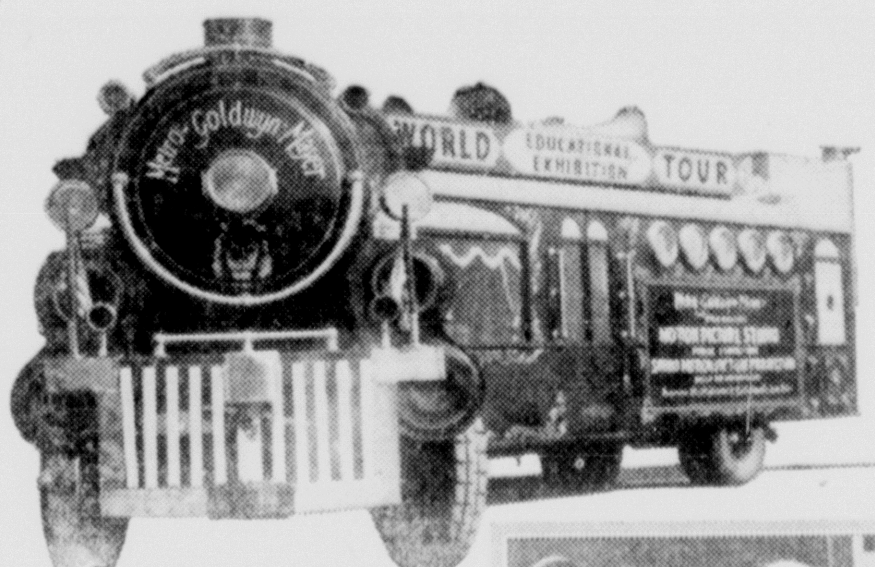

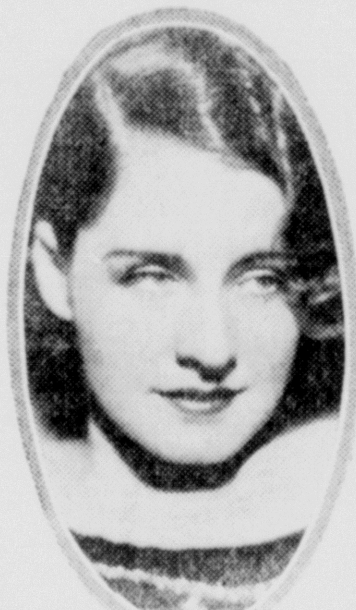

Texas finds itself face to face with a disparity that cannot be overcome unless it recognizes that we have come along apace. New structures of wealth have arisen in the state. The antiquated tax gathering systems continue to languish in the shadow of a vanishing source of income. The people refuse to recognize their own progress. With the zealotry of a Peruvian adoring the rising sun they insist that still we must wring vast public sums from the soil in specific levies.

Thousands of Texans who earn into the millions each year pay nothing to state upkeep. The state and federal governments had finally to levy a sales tax on gasoline to build roads. Its burden falls upon the poor and not the rich. It should be lessened and a consumption levy be made upon other items to more equally distribute the burden. The lobbyists say it would tax the bread eaten by the poor. The rich eat no bread, neither do they spin or till the soil. They live in another world—a world that has strong barriers against intrusion.

Nearly two thirds of all motor cars are bought by people whose yearly incomes are less than $3000. One third of all motor cars are bought by people whose incomes are below $2000, and more motor cars are sold to persons with incomes of less than $1400 per year than are sold to persons with incomes of over $7000.

The Texas Senate defeated a resolution aimed at compelling disclosure of retainers. Should a public official accept large fees from corporations? Can they represent the people in matters pending for solution where the interests of the corporations conflict with those of the people? Do the people have a lobby at Austin? Do the farmers have a lobby? The Senate has said by a majority it is none of the people's business where

Relief Director Denies Trade Control Charges

In a recent interview with W. L. Clark, Jr., Relief Administrator of Milam county, he said there apparently had been some misunderstanding among local merchants in regard to the relief payroll checks. Some merchants have been told by the relief clients that they must trade in some particular store or be taken from the relief rolls.

The Administrator says that the relief office has never, at any time, given such instructions. Checks given to relief workers, when properly indorsed, can be cashed at any store or bank chosen by the relief client. The relief office has no interest or bank chosen by the relief client, trade so long as they spend their money for the necessities of life.

All persons on relief rolls are placed there, after having shown proof of need determined by an investigation in the home of the client making application for relief. Eligibility for relief is based entirely upon need and the choice of merchant to be patronized by the relief client is left entirely to the relief client. Final decision upon the eligibility of an applicant for relief is made only in the relief office, after proper consideration of information furnished by a home visit.

Albert Brooker Tuesday was given two years in prison for the same offense, there being 11 cases against him also. Emory B. Camp, criminal district attorney, is conducting the prosecution.

Both are said to be facing charges of robbery with firearms in Harris county. The district attorney plans to try each of the 11 cases unless they agree to accept sentences.

Third Suspended Sentence Is Given For Murder Here

For the third time within the year a suspended sentence has been given by a jury in Milam county district court for murder.

Johnny Jackson, negro from Burlington was thus set free by a jury last week. He was indicted by the Grand Jury and tried. He killed another negro in a gambling fight.

This amazing quick of jury justice has caused widespread criticism.

POISONED DRINK IS CAUSE SUDDEN DEATH

Death resulted when E. Roberson, 22, of Briary, drank poison liquor on Wednesday of last week.

Justice of Peace Wonack Brashear called for the inquest rendered a verdict in which he said the young man's death was caused from drinking the spirits. He has been making some investigation to determine, if possible, whether foul play is involved in the death. Young Roberson died suddenly after he had taken the drink, it is said.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at Powers Chapel, with interment in the cemetery there.

JOSEPH MONDRIK, 88 DIES IN HOME HERE

Joseph Mondrik, 86, pioneer, and a resident of Texas for 61 years, died at his home in Cameron Sunday morning February 3, 1935 at 8 o'clock.

The end came to the pioneer after many days of illness and a period of declining health. The city was saddened by the news of his passing.

Joseph Mondrik was born in Austria at a time when the great empire of Franz Joseph influenced the nations of Europe. He was born on September 25, 1848. He came to Texas when 21 years of age landing at Galveston. He obtained a position in Galveston and there worked for a time, later moving to Fayette county where he lived for years.

When he moved to Milam county he settled in the Marak community and lived there 16 years. He then (See MONDRIK on page 6)

She had been a resident of Milam county for 46 years and was the mother of the late Fritz Vogelsang, Jr., well known and popular citizen of the county for years.

The Vogelsang name belongs to a period of progress in Milam county dating back for more than half a century. The Vogelsang community saw the early settlement of a vast acreage of land in the northern part of the county. A church built there (See MRS. VOGELSANG on page 6)

J. L. Standiford, 85, Confederate veteran, died in a local hospital here Saturday February 2, from injuries suffered when he was trapped in the flames that destroyed his home at San Gabriel on Friday.

The brothers lived alone in their farm house near San Gabriel. The home was found burning when George Standiford returned from a rural mail box a short distance away.

Decensed was rushed to Cameron for hospital treatment. He was one of the few remaining soldiers of the South in the war between the states, having entered the Confederate army a youth in his teens. He was a native of Virginia but had lived in Milam County since 1870.

Legislature at a Glance

By Senator Bob Poage

The Legislature's accomplishment of the past week was the passage by both the House and Senate of some eight bills submitted by the Governor as emergency measures and designed to enable Texas to participate in the benefits of the Federal Housing Act. These bills amend various sections of our statute but taken altogether they allow various lending agencies, such as banks, insurance companies and building and loan associations to invest in Federal housing securities. In the Senate the bills were reported favorably by the committee and were passed on the floor with only one dissenting vote, that of Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, who denounced the Housing Act as "the most socialistic scheme the new deal has yet involved." Personally, it appeared to me that the passage of these bills was necessary if this state was to enjoy any of the benefits provided by this Federal legislation.

The delinquent tax muddle was clarified by the passage in both House and Senate of a joint resolution authorizing tax collectors to immediately accept delinquent taxes without interest or penalty. It is hoped that this will prevent the filing of any suits on delinquent taxes at this time, and that it may encourage immediate payment of taxes that would otherwise wait until February 8th. Much confusion heretofore existed in regard to this matter by reason of the failure of the remission bill passed at the last called session to receive a two thirds vote, thus delaying its effective date until February 8th.

The Senate finally adopted its permanent rules and made provision for penalizing absentees from committee meetings. While committee work is one of the most important phases of legislation, it is too often entirely overlooked both by members and the public, because there is nothing spectacular about it. I find myself on fourteen committees, and am going to have considerable difficulty in attending all of their meetings, as there will inevitably be conflicts, but I think that it is a good rule, and that committee attendance should be enforced.

The Senate also relaxed the Constitutional provision as it could do by four-fifths vote, so that committee work has already commenced and the consideration of bills will be taken up on the floor forty days after convening, but it retained the rule to prohibit the introduction of bills after the first 60 days. I hope that this rule will be followed. If it is, the people will be able to know what legislation is before the Legislature in time to make their views known. It may, however, be discarded as it always has in the past, and this probability is especially strong this session in view of the fact that the House has thrown the entire session open. The first important committee work was had today when the committee on constitutional Amendments recommended that Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution of the United States do not pass. There will, of course, be a minority report, and the whole thing will have to be fought out on the floor of the Senate. It is very unfortunate that this amendment had no limitation as to time set upon it by Congress. It has been before the legislature every session since I have been a member.

One of the most spectacular features of the session, to date, is expected to occur tomorrow when the Senate considers the House Resolution calling upon all members to make a statement as to any retainer fees they may receive. Personally, I am in favor of the resolution and believe that the people are entitled to know not only what the retainers fees the public official is receiving, but other private employment he may have, whether as a lawyer or in some other capacity. I do not think that there is nearly so much wrong doing or improper representation as generally supposed. It is largely a matter of mis-understanding on the part of the public, but they are entitled to know the facts, and I think when they do, there will be a better understanding all around. There is considerable rumor that the investigation may go much further than its author intended. I have no objection to increasing its scope so long as the change is not made for the purpose of killing the resolution.

As a climax to the study which has been made by the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, of which I have been a member, we introduced a bill consolidating the various state law enforcement agencies, as ranger force, highway patrol, etc., into one, thereby known as the Department of Public Safety. We believe that with one head these state enforcement agencies can do a much better and more thoroughly coordinated piece of work. The Department would continue the work of the rangers and of the highway patrol but would have only one head at Austin, where there would be a bureau of identification, a state radio broadcasting system and facilities for the analysis and coordination of information for the aid of local officers throughout the state. If enacted, this legislation will give Texas an ultra-modern organization to compete crime and its efficiency will equal that of any similar organization in the United States. Unless we go to the matter with every ounce of our energy, we are going to find this state controlled in the near future by criminal gangs that are even now much more firmly entrenched than most of our people realize. We believe that the first duty of government is to protect its citizenship from the criminal.

THE TAMALE MAN

By Nell Vaughan

There's never a day that passes, Whether it be rainy or fair, That the Tamale Man isn't heard Shouting out his wares, "Tamales."

With a scarf over his shoulders, And red bandana over his head, You can never forget this picture, Nor the word he said, "Tamales."

His cart was a tinkle of tiny bells, As he slowly wound his way Through every street in the city, And he would constantly say, "Tamales."

There was always a smile on his features, And kindness to every child, And he seemed to enjoy his work, Chanting all the while: "Tamales."

Now and then someone would stop him To buy of his fare on the street And soon he would be gone again, And you would hear hi srepeat: "Tamales."

As he passes out of sight and hearing, His picture still remains, And you can hear if you listen, His unchanging refrain, "Tamales."

NOLAN AS AN AGED MAN

Phillip Nolan was always an active man and during the latter part of his life he tried to keep up his exercises as regularly as possible.

However, he spent much of his time at different ones of his diversions. It is said that he was an excellent reader, both aloud and silent, and often spent five hours of each day reading.

Nolan kept note books and scrap-books which he wrote constantly. He was very devout in his study of botany and natural science and a sailor once said that he was the first naturalist he had ever known that could clearly tell the habits of the house-fly and the mosquito.

His drawings were usually of perfect design. In his room he had a beautiful map of the United States in his time fastened on the wall with a drawing of the stars and stripes around a head of Washington drawn from memory. He delighted in these and they afforded him much pleasure.

Just before his death, Danforth told Nolan all he had been waiting fifty years to hear. He was overcome with joy and died happily thinking of his country and his flag.

NOLAN'S PUNISHMENT WAS UNJUST

I believe that Nolan's punishment was too severe, because he was a very young man. Living as he did in the lonely Fort Adams he met very few people who were attractive. So when the dashing Aaron Burr appeared and paid special attention to him, Nolan was completely overwhelmed. Being flattered and promised future rewards made Nolan feel that his "friendship" with Burr was more important than love of country or loyalty to it.

It seems to me that Nolan's sentence would have been quite sufficient if it had lasted about two or three years, for by that time he had learned his lesson. His life-long punishment deprived his country of a loyal and patriotic citizen and robbed Nolan of the joy and happiness of life to which all honest people are

CAMERON WOMEN WILL SEE FAMOUS METRO-GOLDWYN MAKE UP ARTIST WHEN STUDIO VISITS IN CITY

The allure of Joan Crawford . . . the glamour of Jean Harlow . . . the wistful charm of Nora Shearer!

Women the world over have admired . . . perhaps sometimes envied . . . these fundamental characteristics which made possible the rise to screen fame achieved by these famous Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stars.

And yet . . . the illusions of allurements, and glamour, and charm radiated by these stars are accountable in a marked measure to the proper and efficient application of a correct make-up ensemble.

That is the opinion of Marcia Lapine, motion picture make-up expert, who as a Max Factor artist, has had years of experience in making up many of the famed beauties at the mammoth Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios in Culver City, California.

And in this respect it is her emphatic contention that just as Joan Crawford's make-up gives her beauty that intangible touch of allurements just as Jean Harlow's emphasizes glamour and often youthful sophistication; as Norma Shearer's intensifies her native naturalness and charm, so every woman can, through the magical art of make-up properly applied, bring out and accentuate all the highlights of her natural attractiveness and individual personality.

For Cameron Women

The fascinating secrets that the screen stars of Hollywood have learned in dramatizing their beauty with make-up will be revealed to the women of this city when the elaborate Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Traveling Motion Picture Studio visits the Cameron Theatre here on Saturday February 9.

Feminine visitors to the lavishly equipped studio on wheels will be permitted to consult the Max Factor make-up expert to receive personal make-up advice and to have their complexions analyzed, it is announced.

single girl is not interested in married men.

On the other hand, there are some married women who have no children and nothing much to do. They are discontented and looking in every direction for a thrill. Unfortunately for them, the single girls prove more attractive to the bachelors of their community than do they, so they have to hunt in other fields for their prey. The easiest game in the world is the man whose wife is so occupied with a house full of children that she hasn't the time or inclination to be romantic, so our female hunter gets to work on such a victim with gusto. She flatters and "understands" the husband. She appears to admire the wife immensely but lets him know how much she pities him for being tied down to such a practical, unsympathetic companion when he has such a capacity for love, etc., etc. He is usually just at the age to fall for this line of chatter, and the rest is easy.

So I am inclined to agree with the "Wife Who Knows" and say with her that if the husbands of our readers have a tendency to stray, their wives will do well to watch the idle wives of their acquaintance rather than their husband's attractive unmarried employees.

Yours,
LOUISA.

Louisa's Letter

SOME MARRIED WOMEN SEEK "THRILL" AFFAIRS

Dear Louisa:

I notice a great many letters from wives who suspect the single girls who work for their husbands of stealing their affections. In my opinion, they have more to fear from idle married women than they have from single girls, don't you think so?

A WIFE WHO KNOWS.

Answer: I think that our reader is probably right. As a usual thing, the girl who works for the average middle aged husband has no interest in him at all outside of being interested in holding her job. No attractive girl with a grain of common sense is going to waste her time on a married man when she might be putting in good work getting some single fellow started toward the altar.

The married women whose husbands lunch and dance attendance on their stenographers will find nine times out of ten that the man is not being vamped as she suspects, but is the instigator of the affair.

Of course, there are always exceptions to any rule, and there are a small minority of single girls who think it is smart and sophisticated to run around with a married man. If the man happens to be wealthy and attractive, there are also single girls who are so callous and selfish at to deliberately try to break up a home and get their man. But the average

CONGRESSMAN CROSS WRITES OF OLD AGE PENSION GIVES INFORMATION ABOUT PENDING PLANS

Mr. Harper Stephens,
Temple, Texas.

My Dear Mr. Stephens:

Your letter advocating the passage of what is known as the Townsend old age pension plan, received.

I am in favor of an old age pension based upon economic soundness. There are a large number of bills introduced by different ones proposing as many different plans. These bills are referred to, and are being considered by the Ways and Means Committee. They are referred to this committee because this is the committee in Congress that when money is appropriated must devise the way of taxing the people to raise means to pay it.

This committee is holding hearings on the various plans before it, and when these hearings are finished this committee, constantly advising with the President, will report a bill that the President will not veto. This bill when reported by the Ways and Means Committee will be brought before Congress under a rule from the Rules Committee which will doubtless provide that no changes or amendments can be offered to the bill, and that Congress must accept it or reject it as reported by the Ways and Means Committee to the Congress.

I am not a member of the Ways and Means Committee, but have been submitting the letters and petitions sent me to this committee for their consideration. However, I have been advised by the members of the committee with whom I have talked that their investigations show there are in excess of ten million people in the United States over sixty years of age, and that under the Townsend plan twenty-four billion dollars ($24,000,000,000.00) would have to be raised annually to pay pensions, and that with a population of one hundred and twenty billion people, the average family consists of about five members, or there are about twenty four million families in the entire country, each family would have to pay an average of $1,000.

I am also advised by members of this committee that are holding these investigations that not only do the families in agricultural states average more in numbers than do the families in non-agricultural or industrial states, such as New York and other states with large centers of population, but that the farming families purchase far more on an average than families living in cities, because of agricultural implements, livestock, and other things that farms require.

In addition to this, as a rule the poorer classes of our population have larger families than do the well-to-do, and the burden would fall especially heavy upon them. They say, too, that it would take considerable more on an average than $1,000 to the family because of the tremendous expense of administering the law. And that under the Townsend plan the tax being raised by a Sales Tax, those with large incomes, many in excess of one million dollars would pay in proportion to their ability to pay a mere trifle, which of course is true.

From the attitude of the members of the Ways and Means Committee that I have heard express themselves, I do not believe the so-called Townsend plan has any chance to be reported by that committee to Congress. I feel sure whatever bill they submit to Congress will be passed, and I expect to vote for it.

Of course any state can increase the amount to be paid to its citizens to any sum the Legislature may see fit. In fact, the Legislature of 28 states have already passed laws paying an old age pension to the citizens of those states who have reached the age that makes them eligible under the law.

I am receiving so many letters and petitions in reference to the question of the old age pension, both for what is known as the "Townsend plan" and also for what is known as the "Pope plan." I am sending this letter to the papers in my district that those interested may be advised as to the situation.

Sincerely yours,
O. H. CROSS.

CANDY TO CAT-HATERS

Chicago.—Rockwell Sayre, who was killed in 1931, was a cat hater. He left a will naming Queen Marie of Roumania, Mrs. Calvin Coolidge and 107 other prominent persons, whom he heard also hated cats. Each was given about $8.00 worth of candy.

WHEN YOU TAKE A LAXATIVE

... use a spoon

It isn't what brand of laxative you take that's so important—it's the form. A liquid laxative can be taken in any required amount. If only a little is needed, you need never take a bit too much.

Doctors favor the easily measured liquid laxatives. Instead of any form that does not encourage variation from the fixed dose. A fixed dose may be an overdose for you—or your child.

Always remember this one thing about constipation: the secret of any real relief is reduced dosage.

Give the bowels only as much help as may be needed, and less help as the need grows less. You will find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin an excellent aid in regulating the bowels. It contains senna and cascara (natural laxatives) and it will clear-up any bilious, sluggish condition without upset. Delightful taste, and pleasant action. Your druggist has it.

26 Farmers Build 90,450 Yards Of Terrace Work

Twenty-six Cameron farmers will build 90,450 yards of terrace on their farms this year as a result of the soil conservation program that has been carried on by Harley Modette and George Leath, emergency vocational teachers of agriculture.

In addition to running terrace lines these teachers have advised with farmers on methods of building terraces, planting of strip crops, arrangement of row systems, and planting of soil improvement crops. Once each week meetings have been held at rural schools where special talks on soils and fertilizers were given.

The following farmers are included in the program: Frank Kutnak, Frank Valka, John McClerran, Dell Fuller, J. O. Stewart, Joe Michalka, L. M. Westbrook, J. A. Stewart, Louis Modette, G. J. If We Divide Cameron's Wealth

If all the wealth in Cameron was hoarded in a barrel with the understanding that it would be distributed among the citizens of Cameron it would be to the profit of every citizen, rich and poor to make the barrel as rich as possible.

Knowing that the contents would be distributed among the citizens here, and that they alone would share in the prize each man, woman and child would strive to pack the barrel as tight as possible. There would be no careless dispatch of money to other cities, where other people would be happy in the distribution of the wealth, foolishly contributed by the people of Cameron.

The wealth of Cameron is expressed in money and every citizen has some of it. The barrel into which it can be placed is the commerce of Cameron. Every time a citizen buys from a Cameron merchant he puts some of his wealth (money) into the business-barrel of Cameron. This business-barrel is in turn distributed to our citizens in wages, rents and other transactions. The larger the barrel and the tighter it is packed the larger will be the share of every citizen.

The distribution of the wealth of Cameron, however, does not happen all at once. It is in process throughout the year. Every day as citizens trade in Cameron they add to the sum in the business barrel, and other citizens, taking it out, pass it around. The only hitch in this endless chain comes when some thoughtless man or woman, after receiving some of Cameron's wealth sends it through the mails to another city, where it gets into another barrel and is distributed among other people.

Worth A Tribute

Let's pay a tribute to Jan Kubelik, the great Czech violinist, who went into bankruptcy a few years ago.

This artist, without what business men would call a business sense, assumed, after the proceedings in court all his debts, although not legally bound to do so. He is gradually paying them off.

His example is not new; others have done the same thing, but the spirit is so rare as to deserve attention and commendation.

"The Great Gamble"

Thirty thousand people are killed each year and 850,000 injured in automobile accidents. The Travelers Insurance Company recently issued a very interesting book titled as this editorial is. Every automobile driver should read it. Streets are not speed ways, points out the author, and cars without adequate brakes, or using burned out lights, or lacking in other particulars, are "potential engines of destruction." Referring to the many cases of drivers on the wrong side of the road, passing on curves and hills where the road cannot be seen ahead, and such common practices the writer says he tries to drive as if he expected "the world's prized idiot around every next corner" or curve.

There are some interesting figures and statistics in this booklet. Three hundred and twenty-five thousand Americans have been killed in automobile accidents in fifteen years whereas the enemies of this grat nation in all of our wars were only able to kill 300,000. Four hundred and ninety-two thousand and five hundred accidents investigated showed that more than one fourth of them were caused by excessive speed, another quarter by drivers proceeding without the right of way, one-eighth because cars were on the wrong side of the road, and so on.

While nine-tenths of the cars in accidents were apparently in good condition there was no way of telling for certain because the wrecks usually left the cars in bad shape. Tests in many states, however, have revealed that three out of every four cars registered were defective in some way—one-third with improper braking facilities, seven-tenths with inadequate lamps for lighting, one half with tires which were worn too badly, and so on.

Darkness plays its part in causing accidents, again showing the need for proper lighting. During the rush traffic hours of five to nine in the evening nearly four times as many people have been killed as during the four rush morning hours, six to ten. There are some surprising facts. Seventy-nine per cent of the accidents occur on straight stretches, eighty four per cent in clear weather and ninety two per cent with drivers who have been operating their cars a year or longer.

While only one-sixth of the accidents occur on highways as against streets and intersections, one-third of the deaths take place on these rural stretches, the result of higher speed. Three-fourths of all deaths occur outside of cities, caused likewise by the speed maintained.

Just as serious as the high speed are the practices of those who enter heavily traveled highways without stopping, who pass cars on curves or inclines where their view is limited, or who do not adjust their travel to the character of the highway and the road situation which they are encountering. Common sense and good judgment, properly exercised, would save many lives.

About the World Court

American adherence to the World Court has been denied by the United States Senate, although advocated by Presidents Roosevelt, Hoover, Coolidge and Harding.

The Court, however, has completed thirteen years of activity and, without this country, will continue to serve other nations in settling disputes. It offers to those nations that seek it a method of reason instead of a resort to arms to end arguments.

In several instances the Court has rendered opinions on questions, that, in other years, might have started wars. The Eastern Greenland case illustrates the point. Public opinion had been aroused in Denmark and in Norway, when the former applied to the old Court. Norway made no objection and did not hesitate, at the end to carry out the judgment in Denmark's favor.

In years to come, perhaps, the United States will join this Court or something similar. There is no particular hurry. Time usually brings about all good things and we can afford to wait and see what the nation wants to do in later years.

Wanted: Suggestions

Idle boasting on the part of the little men is amusing, but no more so than the vain-glory of large cities. Cameron does not pretend to be on an equal with New York and Chicago but within reasonable limits it has possibilities in keeping with its size.

Talking about how good a town Cameron is does not make it grow. Shooting off our mouths about civic loyalty means nothing unless translated into action. Providing a good marketing center, and trading facilities, are useless as intentions.

The Herald invites all citizens of this town to suggest an outstanding need, one that is possible of attainment. We hope that the citizens will take this seriously, and give some thought to it. There is no use to suggest, for example, a skyscraper, because that is out of the question just now. What we want is sensible suggestions, not too fanciful or yet too small to merit community co-operation.

and the old homes of the land owners still stand.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Lutheran church in Burlington by Rev. R. Kalkbrenner, pastor, at 2:30 o'clock. Interment was made in Burlington Lutheran cemetery. The Coleman Funeral Home in Cameron directed funeral arrangements.

Among the surviving members of the family of Vogelsang is E. Vogelsang of Cameron, business man and widely known stockman. Another is Will Vogelsang of Ben Arnold, farmer and well known land owner.

Deceased is survived by the following nieces and nephews: E. Vogelsang, Cameron; Will Vogelsang, Ben Arnold; Mrs. P. L. Bergum, Ben Arnold; H. Vogelsang, San Antonio; and Miss Ida Vogelsang of New Braunfels, a sister of E. Vogelsang of Cameron.

Pall bearers were selected from among friends who have lived in the Vogelsang community, named for her late husband and brother, early day settlers there.

moved to Cameron, making his home about one mile west of the city until moving to his present family home in west Cameron. His sons, the late lamented Frank and Joe Mondrik, were leading business men here for years, having established the Mondrik Brothers store in Santa Fe town, now operated by his grand son Alvin Mondrik.

His first marriage was to Miss Cecelia Kulhanek. The following children survive from their marriage: Mrs. W. R. Newton, Mrs. A. J. Matocha, Mrs. Wohleb, Mrs. Angeline Kenezek, Campton, California; Mrs. Josephine Matocha, Oregon; Miss Amelia Mondrik and Louis Mondrik. Three sons are dead as follows: Dr. A. L. Mondrik, Bryan; Joe Mondrik, Jr. and Frank Mondrik.

His second marriage was to Miss Annie Kutnak with whom he had lived for 24 years and who now survives. To them were born two children as follows: Mrs. Helen Marak, Jr., and Lincoln Mondrik.

Mr. Mondrik was a member of the Catholic church. He was a member of the Sons of Herman and the S. P. J. S. T. Lodge.

Funeral services were held for the pioneer from the family residence on Monday February 4, with Mass in St. Monica's church conducted by Rev. Father Geo. Apel. Interment was made in Catholic cemetery. Pall bearers were C. E. Ludwig, F. A. Marek, Albert Krennek, E. O. Schiller, Joe Stockias, R. J. Guzman, John Waltzek and B. P. Matocha.

Many floral tributes were paid by friends here and from distances. A large crowd attended to pay their homage to one of the outstanding pioneers of Milam county who lived to merit the esteem of his fellowmen and left to his community an example of good citizenship.

ry them through on time and without difficulty," said Jess Brock, Agent Magnolia Petroleum Company at Cameron.

"So they chose Mobilgas and Mobiloil as they knew these two products could be depended upon to do the job completely and satisfactorily. The same grade of Mobilgas and Mobiloil used by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Traveling Motion Picture Studio is available at all Magnolia Stations and dealers," continued Mr. Brock.

great pictures, had this film made at the studios especially for showing aboard their great traveling motion picture studio.

In addition, while the screen program is being presented, film fans will be permitted to enter the studio to view the equipment which is used in the projection of the pictures upon the screen, and the operations will be explained in detail by the studio's chief projectionist.

Five Year Tour

A traveling studio, which is now on a five year educational tour of the world, was constructed by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company at a cost of $150,000. It combines facilities for both the filming and recording of sound pictures as well as the projection of these pictures upon the screen, and the sound equipment alone is valued at $60,000.

This equipment is to be opened for inspection when the studio arrives here and may be viewed in front of the Cameron Theatre from four thirty until seven o'clock, Saturday February 9, it is announced.

Make-Up Artist

Eleven people in all are journeying around the world with the traveling studio. In this group is a prominent Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director, soundman and camera man and an official Max Factor make-up artist from the film studios of California, and it is announced that they will be available to answer questions concerning the motion picture industry while the studio is visiting here.

In addition to the studio itself, the Hollywood caravan consists of a special built Studebaker camera car and pilot car. Every city and town in the United States will be visited, according to plans, and then the studio will be shipped to Europe and the Far East, visiting every country on the globe where Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures are shown.

F. A. Marek of the Exchange Furniture Company, was taken ill Wednesday morning early and was taken to the Cameron Hospital for treatment. He is reported resting some better.

DIES IN SEGUIN HOME

Many hearts have been saddened by the news of the death of Mrs. Myrtle Tyson Carter, who passed away in Seguin on January 28, 1935, at the age of 29 years, 11 months and 6 days. She was ill for only five days from a complication of diphtheria, scarlet fever and pneumonia.

Mrs. Carter was born at Maysfield, Texas on February 22, 1905. She became a member of the Methodist church in early childhood. Into her brief life has been crowded many worthy achievements. She had an extremely brilliant mind and a wonderful personality.

She graduated from Calvert High School at the age of fifteen, received her B. A. degree from Teachers college at San Marcos, and last summer she received her M. A. degree from the University of Texas. For the past ten years she has been a teacher in the public schools, four years at Martindale and six years in San Marcos.

Recent Bride

Only five weeks before her death she became the bride of E. L. Carter, teacher and Athletic Coach in Seguin High School. Funeral services were conducted in Seguin and at the cemetery near Luling where she was laid to rest. She sleeps by the side of her husband's brother, who passed away less than two years ago. She was director of physical education in the Campus School and teacher in the High School at San Marcos, and these schools were dismissed so that all her pupils and fellow teachers might attend the funeral.

San Marcos High School boys were her pall bearers, and some of Mrs. Carter's students were honorary pall bearers. The unusually large number of floral offerings and the presence of so many people, both young and old, attested to the love that every one felt for her.

Parents in Milam

Mrs. Carter is survived by her husband, E. L. Carter of Seguin, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar A. Tyson of Maysfield, one brother, Powell M. Tyson of Rosebud, two sisters Mrs. Leslie McNeese of Round Rock, and Miss Sue Ella Tyson of Maysfield, and by many sorrowing relations with whom she was a favorite. She was a grand daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Powell, and a grand-niece of the beloved Aunt Lizzie Wilson.

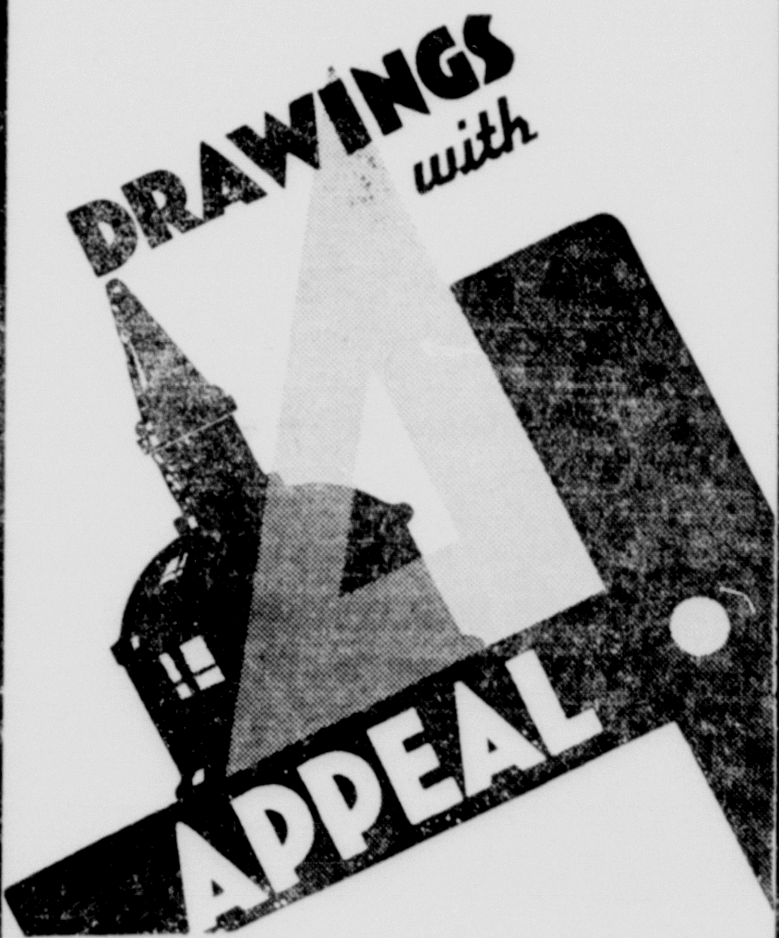

Those from this vicinity to attend the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yates and Mrs. Emma Porter from Branchville; Mr. Carl B. Tyson of Cameron; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Porter of Calvert; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Peel of Port Sullivan; Mrs. George Thomas of San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Guy T. Newton of Cameron. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eads of Heidenheimer, and Mrs. J. B. Porter of Houston.

Sorrow Expressed

Mrs. Carter's life was a quiet but shining example for all things that were worthy and right, and the hearts of the hosts who loved her will be deep and never-ending sorrow for the loss to this world of one so bright and beautiful. Words could never express how widely and how dearly she was loved, for truly to "know her was to love her, and to to name her was to praise."

Being About People and Things In Cameron

C. R. Raby of Norman Vaalley was in Cameron Tuesday. He supplied the material for the widely read and appreciated story of the 214 year old pecan tree whose trunk lies near his story at the valley bridge across Little River. This tree was felled in 1929. The Bureau of Plant Industry of the United States government gave a report on its age. Mr. Raby will be a reader of the Herald in 1935 having given his subscription this week and will receive his first copy Friday on Route 1 out of Buckholts. Mr. Raby owns a store and service station in the wooded area adjoining the bridge and skirted by the highway from Ad Hall to Sharp.

Henry Schattle, for a number of years a reader of the Herald, was in the city Saturday and has advanced his reading date to 1937. Mr. Schattle is one of the many successful farmers on Route 3 out of Cameron. Last year he was successful in his crop production and profited by the increase in price of cotton. He thinks the Bankhead Bill has been a great benefit on the price structure and while it may result in some cases detrimental to the small planter, in the end, it will be beneficial to all, and should be changed to be more beneficial to small one crop farmers. Mr. Schattle farms about 175 acres of land.

A. R. Rochetzky of Hanover knows much of the later history of Texas occurring in the Seventies, a dymic period of the Lone Star State. He was a visitor in the offices of the Herald last week end. He knew the cattle ranges of Southwest Texas when they sparkled with longhorns. He spent most of his time in DeWitt and adjoining counties. In late years he was working with railroads. For a long period now he has lived on his farm near Hanover. Occasionally he finds Indian arrows on his place and keeps them because they are a part of Texas history. Mr. Rochetzky is a reader of the Herald and likes this old newspaper.

Mr. Fritz Glaser was in Cameron Tuesday spending the day with her sister, Mrs. Joe Hebner. Both are readers of the Herald. Mrs. Hebner having been a reader for many years and Mrs. Glaser receives her first copy of the Herald this week, having selected this paper for 1935. Mrs. Glaser has commanded state wide attention for her exhibits in the county meat shows, always taking the first prize. She is preparing for the annual show this year. The publishers appreciate her support and are glad to welcome her to the rapidly growing reader list in her section of the county.

Among the new readers to enroll in the 500 Club this week is Bill Storey. He will receive his first copy of the Herald this week at his home south of the city. Mr. Storey for many years has been watchman for the Southern Pacific Lines in this vicinity and lives adjacent to the line near the trestle leading through the Little River bottom to Minerva. There with his family he enjoys country life and is sufficiently close to the city to have the advantages as well. The publishers appreciate this reader support.

P. T. A. Program To Celebrate Founding Of Organizations

Cameron Parent-Teacher Association, together with affiliated groups throughout the county, will celebrate this month, the founding of the National Congress of Parent and Teachers.

The playlet will be directed by Miss Lanelle Love and characters will be taken by High School students. The pageant, under the direction of Miss Ethel Jenkins, will include in its cast children, parents and teachers.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Episcopal Church service next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock will be Holy Communion and Sermon.

W. F. Vogelsang of Ben Arnold is among the many new readers added to the reader list in that section this week. The paper will go forward to his address for the first time this week having been ordered by his father, Will Vogelsang, also a long time reader of the Herald. The publishers appreciate this reader support from Mr. Vogelsang.

Mrs. Geo. Childress is visiting old time school mates in Ardmore, Oklahoma, and Oklahoma City.

Mrs. W. A. Bonds and mother, Mrs. Henry Ruby, Mrs. Albert Schiller and mother, Mrs. Kirkland spent Wednesday in Waco.

The row over boxing in New York City came to the fore again last week when the State Athletic Commission rejected a proposal from the Madison Square Garden Corporation that Jack Dempsey, former heavy-weight champion, be employed as a referee in the bout between Art Lasky and James J. Braddock. The promoters contended that fans were dissatisfied with many decisions of appointees by the Commission and wanted Dempsey as a referee because of his popularity. One member of the Commission suggested that if the Garden crowd wanted Dempsey in the fight scene, it might let him come in as a promoter.

Braves Field, home of the Boston National League Club, has been saved for baseball. President Frick states that an eleven-year lease has been signed. The dog racing interests had not secured a lease on the field and will have to find other quarters if the hounds make entrance into Boston.

Sir Malcolm Campbell reached the United States last week for the purpose of going to Daytona Beach, Fla., to make an effort to set a world's automobile speed record. In 1933, he established the present record of 272,108 miles per hour. His redesigned Bluebird has an extra set of wheels on the rear end for greater traction and a new set of air brakes for slowing down at the end of the ten mile stretch. The top gears cannot be used until the car begins to travel two hundred miles per hour. With the British speed champion came his wife, daughter, and 5 mechanics. The new speed attempt will be made sometime around February 14th.

Frank Frisch, manager of the World Champion Cardinals, spent a night in Detroit last week and explained that his team became world champions because they were "hot."

While praising the Dean brothers, he insisted that no club in the world could have beaten his team in the final game. He named Tommy Bridges as Detroit's best pitcher and praised the work of JoJo White. Looking ahead for 1935, he made no predictions for the Cardinals. However, he thought the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates would be plenty of trouble in the National League.

News from Santa Anita is that Bill Brennan, trainer of Twenty Grand, the former champion among race horses, has recommended that the veteran be withdrawn from the $100,000 handicap. Twenty Grand won $260,840 in prizes for his owner, Mrs. Payne Whitney, including the Kentucky Derby in 1931 and stands eleventh in the list of all time money winners. Brennan was anxious for his horse to come back after a retirement which began in 1932 but recently the seven-year old developed lameness after a race in which Twenty Grand finished third.

Daniel J. Ferris, Secretary-Treasurer of the A. A. U., has named an all-American track and field team for 1934. It will be published in Spaulding's Athletic Almanac. Eleven of those chosen hold a score of world records and probably could win an Olympic Game contest by themselves. National title holders dominate the list but departures enabled Glenn Hardin of Louisiana State, to tie with Ralph Metcalf, Marquette sprinter, for the greatest number of places on the team—3.

Metcalf, considered by many to be the greatest sprinter of all times, is given top ranking at 60, 100 and 200 meters. Hardin is considered the best in the world in the 200 and 400 meter hurdles and the 400 meter flat. Phil Good of Bowdoin, is the national low-hurdling champion and Ivan Fuqua, of Indiana, rules the 400 meter event. Hardin, however, is clearly superior and no one denies his class.

Other record breakers in 1934 group are Ben Eastman, of the Olympic Club; Milton Sanders, of the German-American A. C.; Bill Bonthron, of Princeton; Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas; John Collier, of Boston A. A.; Percy Baird, of the New York A. C.; Walter Marty, of Fresno State; Bill Graber, of California; and Jack Torrence, of Louisiana State.

Babe Ruth, in Paris, reiterates his threat to quit unless he gets a job as a major league pilot. He says that he has been in base ball twenty-one years but can quit quick and is unable to understand why there isn't at least one managerial job available for him among sixteen clubs. Talking about his recent trip to the Far East, the Babe said that the Japanese are good players but that the best baseball he saw on the trip was in the Philippines. Giving his opinion on the pennant fight this year, he picks the Cardinals in the National League, but is not sure about the American circuit.

Something new in the world of sport comes from France. Henri Cochet, French tennis professional, is leaving on a world trip to spread the French tennis creed by lectures, illustrated moving picture films and by playing exhibition matches with tennis professionals in countries he visits. He has been commissioned by the French ministries of Foreign Affairs and Education combined and his trip will be paid for by the Government, which has instructed embassies and consulates to assist him. It is the nearest approach to a government-backed propaganda tour one has seen.

The huge network of major and minor dams and a wide system of flood control reservoirs that would cost approximately $50,000,000 is the ambition of thousands of people along the Brazos watershed who this week began a barrage of letters and telegrams to Texas congressmen asking support of the huge project.

Plans released by the state board of water engineers show that more than 20 small reservoirs would be constructed along Texas streams tributary to the Brazos, in addition to the $30,000,000 to be spent on 12 major dams along the Brazos and its tributaries.

More than 8,000,000 of the most fertile acres in the South would be reclaimed and protected by the project. In west Texas, thousands of acres of land that now lies in pasture, would be subject to cultivation through irrigation.

The Brazos is 900 miles long. Its watershed embraces 44,600 square miles—28,000,000 acres, or one-sixth of the entire state. The watershed alone is larger than the state of Ohio.

More than 27 per cent of the state's population live within the watershed.

The movement for the Brazos control was begun under Gov. Pat Neff, in 1921. In 1929, the legislature created the Brazos Conservation and Reclamation district, controlled by a board of 21 members appointed by the governor. Louis Mims, of Houston, is president of this organization.

Locksmith Goes Back To Belton

W. O. Ellis, key and lock expert, who established business in Cameron for a short time, has returned to his old home in Belton, having been importuned by many there to return and take up his work as a locksmith.

He sought to establish here a dependable market for local trappers, but due to chaotic conditions in the fur industry had to abandon that plan. For some weeks he followed his profession as locksmith.

Among the local jobs for which he was commended was the restoration of the combination lock on the vault door at the office of the county clerk. After forty years the clerk can use the door to his office as it has been restored to its original working condition by Mr. Ellis.

Mr. Ellis came to Cameron with recommendations from high county officials in Bell county and the people here know that he has in no way been undeserving of their confidence. He plans to make visits back to Cameron, if the trade warrants. Mr. Ellis will read the Herald for 1935 at his home in Belton.

HENRY-LESSON RADCLIFFE

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

International Sunday School Lesson for February 17, 1935.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: Love therefore is the fulfillment of the law." Rom. 13-10.

(Lesson Text: 1 Peter 2:11-17: 4:1-5).

Peter's first epistle was written probably about sixty years A. D. It was intended for the Christians in Asia Minor, to counsel and inspire them in the troubles and tribulations of the time.

Peter called attention to the Christians that they were "sojourners and pilgrims." The characterization may be applied in different ways. The Jewish Christians were scattered throughout the world and away from their normal homeland. Again the Christians in the communities were to a certain extent strangers and visitors among the pagan communities. In another sense, too, these Christians as members of the new faith, pleased with the hope of immortality, were temporarily residents among their mortal neighbors.

The great apostle asked them to "abstain from fleshly lusts." "Do not let us so narrow its interpretation that the majority of us escape the grip of the apostle's injunction," says J. H. Jowett. "Let us attribute a comprehensive content to the unwelcome word 'Lust.' 'Lust' includes the entire army of unclean forces which are antagonistic to the exalted realm of the spirit. It includes not only the carnal desire, but the jealous eye and itching palm. Fleshly lust is everything in life which steams the window of the spirit. Fleshly lust therefore inclusive of envy, jealousy, avarice, insatiable selfishness, and inordinate ambition."

The lusts warned against were those which "war against the soul," the eternal part of man. Those of us living in a modern world should be interested in what Alexander Maclaren says: "As wealth has increased, and so-called civilization has diffused material comforts, senseless luxury, gluttony, drunkenness, and still baser fleshly sins have become more flagrantly common in society which is not distinctively and earnestly Christian; and there never was more need than there is today for Christians to carry aloft the flag of self control and temperance in all things belonging to 'the flesh.'"

From Peter's letter we see that the critics of the Christians speak of them as "evil-doers." Peter's advice was that they live righteously so that the critics would see their good works. This shows that Peter felt that a man or woman conscientiously following the dictates of the Christian religion would be different from other unconverted people in the same community. Yet, in this day and time, it is sometimes difficult to pick out church members from those who never darken the doors of a religious temple. Peter's advice for Christians to answer criticism by "good works" reminds us of the admonition of Jesus himself, "Let your light shine before men that they may see your good work and glorify your Father who is in heaven."

Notwithstanding the fact that the rulers of the day were pagan and hostile to the Christian faith, Peter advised the Christians to obey the laws of the land, again repeating the thought that by "well-doing" they would answer their opponents. Peter did not approve all the laws and recognized customs of his day, but he recognized that orderly government and respect for authority were conditions necessary for any improvement in the social order. "Ninety per cent of the permanent reform is purely education; the rest is emotional or legislative," Dr. S. Parks Cadman thinks. "The schools and churches must resume their neglected task of instructing the children and adolescents in their care that drink is a poison. Science is with them, so is experience, so is the history of intoxicating liquors from the beginning."

In one verse, very briefly, Peter gives four rules for the Christian recipients of his letter: 1. Honor all men. 2. Love the brotherhood. 3. Fear God. 4. Honor the Kingdom. The first was recognition that every man was created in the image of God and had possibilities of eternal life. The second was to encourage the mutual helpfulness and affection which should exist between those suffering for a common and great cause. The third appealed to them to obey the righteous ordinances of God, fearing the inevitable punishment which came from violation. The fourth advised recognition of temporal authority, which was necessary to avoid anarchy and chaos, recognizing that the influence of Christianity would multiply better in a peaceful, orderly world than otherwise. Peter did not advocate the Christians of his day violating the laws of a pagan administration.

This lesson affords an opportunity for temperance applications. The necessity for a reward campaign of education against the evils of alcohol is again at hand. "Can a nation bring itself into prosperity?" asks Clinton N. Howard. "Can a working man or Uncle Sam, suffering from financial depression and head over heels in debt, pay his bills and balance his budget by taking to drink? Millions of men and women are idle, millions half starved, half clothed, half shod, half housed and half fed. What is the remedy? We are told, reduce production! Cut down the production of food, plow under the corn, reduce the acreage of wheat, slow down cotton and speed up liquor! That is not economic recovery; that is economic insanity."

ICKES CALLS JURY

Secretary Ickes has caused a special grand jury to be summoned to investigate reports of swindles involving contractors, officials and others in connection with PWA contracts. The jury, the first summoned since the Teapot Dome scandals, will convene this week. One case to be investigated deals with a $4,000,000 canal project in Texas. The information was obtained by Louis Graves, chief investigator of the department of interior, who has recently been criticised severely for such activity.

Lady Says She Took CARDUI for Cramps; Was Soon Relieved

Women who suffer as she did will be interested in the experience of Mrs. Maude Crafton, of Belleville, Ill., who writes: "For several years, I suffered from irregular trouble and cramping. There would be days when I would have to stay in bed. I would get so nervous, I was miserable. My aunt told me to try Cardui. She believed it would build me up, regulate me and help the nervous trouble. I knew after taking half a bottle of Cardui that I was better. I kept on taking Cardui and found it was doing me a world of good. I am in good health, which means a lot to me." "Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. REPORT MADE ON ROOSEVELT FUNDS Financial returns from entertainments celebrating the Birthday of President Roosevelt January 30, were small and somewhat disappointing, but reports show that a number of enjoyable programs were given.

Together with the proceeds of an entertainment held at San Gabriel, the net amount of money to be retained in Milam county for the rehabilitation of children who have had infantile paralysis is $140.65. The amount to be sent to the treasurer of the fund to be used in research work in an effort to find means to treat and prevent the disease is $60.29.

Mrs. J. P. Love, local chairman, wishes to thank every individual who had a part in this work and especially the Cameron Band, the Boy Scouts, Mrs. M. G. Manning who was in charge of the games at the old school building, Grady Little who looked after the dance at the National Hall, Albert Collins who directed the entertainment at the Country Club, John Andres, chairman of the general committee and Chas. Walzel who led in the ticket selling.

In the next few days Rockdale will have an entertainment, the proceeds to be added to those now on hand.

Milam County's fund will be used very shortly to help crippled children who have been on the waiting list.

Closing the games Miss Helen Blaylock made high score with Miss Wade second. She was presented with both prizes and a silver ladle.

Miss Ryan presented the honor guest with the many useful and attractive gifts, assisted by her sister, Miss Helen Ryan and Miss Lauretta Evans in serving cherry a la mode with coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary at Their Home at Minerva Sunday

Fifty years ago in Fayette county there occurred the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith of Minerva. Together they faced life and set about to make their home in the then meager surroundings of an emerging empire.

The romance of their early years together was spent in the quaint glamor of the Eighties, that fruitful period of stir and adventurous progress to which Texas and Texans must ever be indebted.

Last Sunday, February 3 at their quiet home near Minerva they celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in the warmth of great hospitality to receive the congratulations of many friends who came from all parts of the county and from other sections of the state.

The Smith home, where hospitality and good cheer has found an abiding place for a half century was attractively decorated for this occasion. The dining room was especially attractive with gold and white color scheme.

At noon in the dining room a turkey dinner was served in faultless Texas style. In the afternoon the wedding cake, baked by a grand daughter, Miss Corine Gilbert, was cut and served with punch. During the hours following the dinner many neighbors and friends came in to extend congratulations and to wish for the happy couple many glad returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married in Schulenberg in Fayette County, fifty years ago on February 5, 1885. After ten years in that county they came to Milam county in 1895 and have since lived here. To them has come the blessing of many friends. As good neighbors their investment in good deeds and helpful relations with all comes now to bring them rich profits as they walk into the sunset. Mrs. Smith was Miss Fannie Osborne before her marriage.

They have living four daughters: Mrs. W. H. Frazier of Rockdale, Mrs. Nan Ray of Rogers, Texas, G. E. Pearson of Montgomery, Texas, and Miss Kittie Smith, who is well known in Cameron. Mrs. Frazier and Mrs. Pearson were unable to be present for the occasion. A pretty handmade guest book provided for the occasion bore the names of many friends, many of them coming in later in the afternoon. Those present at the feast were: Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Gilbert, Yarellton; J. B. Gilbert,

TEXAS AID PROGRAM IS ROAD BUILDING

A $50,700,000 construction program of roads, streets and grade separations for Texas has been presented to the finance committee of the United States Senate by highway advocates as a sound way to employ part of the huge federal public works fund, Col. Ike Ashburn of Houston, manager of the Texas Good Roads Association, said today.

The Texas program is part of a nation-wide plan worked out by road leaders from many states. They listed for the committee 23,192 specific projects, to cost $1,700,000,000, which the various state highway departments can initiate immediately or within the year.

There are 975 projects on the Texas list Colonel Ashburn said, including 75 underpasses, 26 eliminations of dangerous highway intersections, 650 federal aid or secondary roads, and 200 within cities or towns.

Mr. and Mrs. Eulan Wiley visited in Temple Sunday afternoon.
